The solid citizen rarely knows much bout these portions of the great city. They are a little off of his beaten track of travel, and, moreover, they are not "re-spectable," and the solid citizen has a hor spectable," and the solid citizen has a horror of all which is not respectable. As I lay no claims to being a solid citizen, I am free to confess to a weakness for prowling around in these out-of-the-way portions of the town, and in the dirt and squalor I occasionally find a romauce, often a flee, but always something new and interesting. South Fifth avenue always possesses more claim to my mind than its more northerly and fashionable namesake. One is respectable and dull. namesake. One is respectable and dull, the other is always unique and sometimes anusing. I was strolling up that classic thoroughfare the other afternoon when I chanced to notice a queerly written sign on the door of a most unromantic-looking brick tenement.

The genuine full-blooded negro looks with scorn upon his lighter brother. Saddle-colored moke," "salmon-colored nigger," "bleached darkey" are some of the epithets I have heard applied to the lighter colored depixens of Little Africa by the coal black aristocracy. Here a banjo player is the producer of music, and he does it right well, too, and genuine negro dances such as one sees in in the tobacco or cotton barns of the South are indulged in.

The great vice of the negro is gambling, The great vice of the negro is gambling and the quarter is plentifully sprinkled with policy shops. They are all alike—a dingy little room, with a deek and a few books and papers to keep up appearances. In one of these places I ran across my friend of the fortune teller's who saw the black ext.

black cat.
"Well, did you make it?" I inquired as he passed me.

Ye see she haint got but one eve; de odder eye is buried, so she sees all de debbil says wid dat," he responded confidently.

Here was a new idea, and to me a new phase of negro superatitution. Resides phase of negro superstitution. Besides policy, draw poker is a favorite game, and the Thompson Street Poker Club is no lancy picture. There is a quiet little barroom in the quarter owned and run by a full-blooded negro, where in the back room several very lively games are carried on every night, but in all these places "white folks" are looked upon with sus-"white lolks" are looked upon with sus-picion.

There is little or no home life in this dark settlement. The family relation is but lightly beld, and marriage is the ex-ception rather than the rule. They are not huddled together as the Italians are in the foul tenements of Crosby and Mott in the foul tenements of Crcsby and Mott streets, but they live like animals rather than as human beling, a conglomerate mixture of whites and blacks occupying every room in the tall tenements—squalid, unventilated and breeding disease. The negro puts his all on outside appearances. The story of the barefooted negro beggar who said, "I doan mind de shoes, boss, but I's jest perishin' for a buzzom pin," aptly llustrates this characteristic, and I can readily believe it to be true. He will can readily believe it to be true. He will wear fairly good clothes and sleep on the

In all other cases it must either be contracted through carelessness; or, according to the new theory of tubercular parasites, received directly from others as an infectious disease. But in either case Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is a positive remedy for the disease in its early stages. It is delay that is dangerous. If you are troubled with shortness of breath, spitting of blood, night sweats or a lingering cough, do not hesitate to procure this sovereign remedy at once.
